

A 10x20 heatmap visualization. The color scale ranges from dark red (low values) to light yellow (high values). The pattern shows a gradient from left to right, with some vertical bands of higher intensity. Several yellow stars are placed on specific cells, likely indicating points of interest or specific data points. The stars are located at various positions across the grid, including the top-left, middle-left, and bottom-right areas.

